Nikon Flash Guide

Nikon's current digital camera flash system, i-TTL, is very good. It's in the D2X, D200, D70, and D50. There are only two gotchas: 1.) The preflashes can be visible and make some subjects blink for every shot. Whoops! Use the flash exposure lock feature if your camera has it to eliminate the preflashes. 2.)

Nikon Flash Guide - Ken Rockwell

The flash guide number (GN) is a measure of the distance at which the flash can illuminate a subject. The higher the guide number, the greater the distance at which the light from the flash is sufficient for optimal exposure. The formula for calculating the guide number is as follows: Guide number (GN)=distance (meters) × aperture (f-number)

The Nikon SB-5000 is the most current top-of-the-line speedlight in Nikon's arsenal of flash units. It is the first Nikon speedlight to utilize radio frequency instead of infrared for flash operation, making the SB-5000 a versatile flash that can be used in daylight conditions without any interference.

Nikon Flash Comparison - Photography Life

Studio flash do not rely much on guide number, because they use all manner of lighting modifiers (umbrellas, softboxes, grids, snoots, etc). Even different reflectors change guide number. The Nikon guide number charts in the user manuals show these GN specifications. Guide Numbers allow these simplifications to compare exposures (here, for GN / 10 feet, and GN / f4), at full power level, same zoom and same ISO.
